EDUCATION: PRO-LIFE CRASH COURSE

Keynote #1

Susan B. Anthony List is an organization working to save babies and their moms by passing lifesaving laws and advancing & mobilizing pro-life women in politics.

After graduating from Loyola University Maryland, she taught English to French high school students before joining the SBA List as an intern in the spring of 2009. Mallory guides SBA List's relationship with broadcast and print news media, oversees our digital communications through the SBA List website and social media platforms, and applies her writing skills through her work.

Through it all her one mission is to speak the truth in love. "I constantly remind myself of that straightforward goal of communicating – in love – the intrinsic value of each human life, and our responsibility to protect and cherish it."
